

4YOU

Zaporizhzhia Pedagogical College

September,
October, 2009

A new generation: we are smart, well-educated, open-minded, and independent – politically, socially, and philosophically

Generation Y, also known as The Millennial Generation, is a term used to describe the demographic cohort following Generation X. Its members are often referred to as "Millennials" or "Echo Boomers". Just beginning to enter the workplace, The Millennial Generation was born between 1977 and 1998. The 75 million members of this generation are being raised at the most child-centric time in our history. Perhaps it's because of the showers of attention and high expectations from parents that they display a great deal of self-confidence to the point of appearing cocky. As you might expect, this group is technically literate like no one else. Technology has always been part of their lives, whether it's computers and the Internet or cell phones and text pagers.

Millennials are typically team-oriented, banding together to date and socialize rather than pairing off. They work well in groups, preferring this to individual endeavours.

They're good multitaskers, having juggled sports, school, and social interests as children so expect them to work hard. Millennials seem to expect structure in the workplace. They acknowledge and respect positions and titles, and want a relationship with their boss.

You will never be happy if you continue to search for what happiness consists of. You will never live if you are looking for the meaning of life.

Albert Camus

Pay attention to:

Graphological, phonological and syntactic humor at page 4.

In this issue:

A new generation	1
What happiness is	2
Gen X and Gen Y	2
How to be happy	3
Notable pop culture	3
A Happiness Poem	4
News	4

Generation Y of ZPC

What happiness is

Carl Jung

There are as many nights as days, and the one is just as long as the other in the year's course. Even a happy life cannot be without a measure of darkness, and the word 'happy' would lose its meaning if it were not balanced by sadness.

Franklin D. Roosevelt

Happiness is not in the mere possession of money; it lies in the joy of achievement, in the thrill of creative effort.

George Sand

There is only one happiness in life, to love and be loved.

Happiness is an ice cream cone with a chocolate coating, and lots and lots of sprinkles.

Happiness is a children's laughter.

Happiness is two people

holding hands

while walking dreamily in the park.

Happiness is two people in love.

Happiness is the splashing of the waves while sitting under the stars on the beach.

Happiness is the sounds of a carnival, with rides, laughter, and games.

Happiness is in your mind, and what you make of it

Happiness is winning a teddy bear from the dart game at the fair.

Happiness is a smile on a cloudy, dreary day.

Happiness is helping someone from deep in your heart.

Happiness is dining out at a very special place, on a very special day.

Happiness is catching the bridal bouquet.

Happiness is a leisurely Sunday drive down a peaceful country road.

Generation X	Millennials
Born 1965-1976	Born 1977 - 1998
Accept diversity Pragmatic/practical Self-reliant/individualistic Reject rules Killer life Mistrust institutions PC Use technology Multitask Friend-not family	Celebrate diversity Optimistic/realistic Self-inventive/individualistic Rewrite the rules Killer lifestyle Irrelevance of institutions Internet Assume technology Multitask fast Friends = family

Happiness probably has as many definitions as there are people in the world. Everybody has a very well defined individual perspective on what makes them happy and what makes them sad. Hence, this post is not about how to be happy, but rather, how to increase or prolong those moments of joy when you get them in your life.

There are some very simple things that we can do to make this happen:

1. Split Your Happiness:

It is the same principle when we save a portion of our favourite candy bar "so we can eat it later", or read a very good book slowly "so we can enjoy it for some more time". We can always make a conscious effort to do this whenever possible and be happy more frequently.

2. Capture and Relive:

Capturing the moments by making a video, taking pictures or even just writing it down, allows you to relive those moments of happiness.

3. Share it with the world:

Happiness multiplies and sorrow diminishes by sharing. We should show it in our attitude and conversations. If you have a good news and you share it with one of your colleagues, they will be happy for you too and that will reassure you of the love people have for you, making you even more joyful.

4. Don't worry about the future:

Everybody loves weekends so they can get sometime to relax and enjoy, but a lot of people spend their Sundays just worrying about the upcoming week. Similarly, people spend a good chunk of their vacations worrying that they will be over soon; not realizing that they are ruining their present by worrying about the future.

5. Do something creative:

If you are in a good mood, chances are, you'll be much more creative and productive than usual.

The Millennial Generation. Notable Pop Culture

Generation Y is known for bringing teen pop back into the mainstream music scene in the late 1990s with acts such as the Backstreet Boys, Spice Girls, 'N Sync, Britney Spears, Christina Aguilera, and Destiny's Child.

Pop punk bands such as Green Day, The Red Hot Chili Peppers and The Offspring are legendary icons to many Gen Yers, many who have followed them since their initial success in the 1990s.

Literature of the 1990s and 2000s popular with Gen Y include Harry Potter, Chicken Soup for the Teenage Soul, and Goosebumps, to name a few.

Newspaper's address:
Auditorium 343, Zaporizhzhia
Pedagogical College

Phone: +380977894032
E-mail: galitsav@yandex.ru

4YOU is

- a monthly paper for those who love English;
- a superb opportunity to have your finger on the pulse of college events;
- the best way to improve your English;
- a chance to accept the editorship

Tatiana Gostieva & Julia Demianova

are in charge of the paper

Announcement

You are invited to participate in a contest for the best composition about happiness. The winner will be awarded with an excellent mark and a special prize.

The best composition will be published.

Your compositions are accepted in 343 room.

Deadline: 20. 09. 2009.

Good writing!

Take a chance to win a prize!

Humor

Graphological humor

TOO MUCH SEX makes you shortsighted

Phonological humor

Airline passenger: Where does this door go TO-o-o-o-o...

Lexical humor

- What did the explorer say when he met a koala in the outback?
- I can't bear it.

Syntactic humor

- How do hedgehogs make love?
- Very carefully.

Call me a cab. Sir,
you are a cab.

Poetry

A Happiness Poem

If a happiness poem could bring forth a smile,
Then my face would always dress in style.
If my ears could hear my computer screen,
From one to another, they, too, would grin.
My keyboard types for my eyes not my tongue
This happiness poem will never be sung.
But what of my eyes? Don't they shine?
Yes, but not from this poem of mine.
The pen is mightier than the sword,
But a pen can write only words.
The feelings I sense and the senses I feel
For keyboard and screen remain far too real.
My ears and my nose remain at rest.
My cheeks and hairline are doing their best.
But if this happiness poem could make my mouth smile,
My face would forever dress up in style.

